16,000 Jobless in San Mateo County

By RICK SULLIVAN
(First of Three Parts)

It was his turn to step to the window.

He appeared anxious and he complained about having to stand in one "wrong" line after the other before finally reaching window "R", which in employment department jargon means New Claims.

He handed the appropriate forms to the portly, middle-aged woman who sat on a stool behind the counter.

"You're a car salesman?" the clerk asked routinely to verify the notation on the form.

"Yes," was all he said.

"Laid off because of lack of work?"

He nodded.

The clerk began matter-of-factly: "In order for you to qualify for unemployment benefits . . ."

Car salesmen, construction workers and food and beverage preparation workers have been crowding employment offices in San Mateo County over the past four months.

They are a part of at least 16,000 persons in the county who likely are to have identical New Year's resolutions: to find a job.

For this growing number of unemployed, the quest will be difficult in the months ahead, experts indicate, as more and more workers in all job fields crowd an already tight job market — one which is expected to tighten through the first six months of the new year.

Indications are that more and more workers will be vying for fewer and fewer job openings.

The spreading recession is taking its toll here, although not as severely as in other areas of this country and in other counties in the Bay Area.

The spiraling unemployment rate in San Mateo County is alarming, but it hovers below both state and Bay Area rates.

According to the county Planning Research and Development Department, 6 per cent of the county labor force was unemployed as of Dec. 1, 1974.

The San Mateo office of the State Employment and Development Department, however, estimates the seasonally adjusted rate now is closer to the latest national figure, 6.5 per cent.

Dec. 1 figures place the state unemployment rate at 8.7 per cent and the Bay Area rate at 8.5 per cent.

The Bay Area rate includes unemployment in five counties: San Francisco, Marin, Contra Costa, Alameda and San Mateo.

According to Steve Graham of the county research department, to isolate San Mateo County's rate from the five county statistical area, the county had to rely on census data compiled in 1970.

At that time the county unemployment rate was 4.1 per cent and the Bay Area rate was 5.8 per cent. To come up with a county rate now it is assumed that the rate increases the same in the Bay Area as it does in San Mateo County. Hence, San Mateo County traditionally has had a lower unemployment rate than the Bay Area.

Officials explain this by citing the low number of minority workers in the county (less than 10 per cent), the abundance of skilled workers and the small number of second wage earners, who are required to work to make ends meet.

They also point out that San Mateo County basically is not an industrial county; it has no automobile factories. Layoffs by automobile firms is contributing most to the increasing unemployment rate nationally.

Although charges often are made that the Employment Department figures do not reflect accurately unemployment in a given area, officials emphasize that their procedure is the most scientific to date and is designed to show what the actual unemployment picture is in a given area at a given time.

According to Ed Chaplin, of EDD Data and Research, to come up with an unemployment figure the department starts with the number of persons claiming benefits, and then makes an estimate of workers unemployed, but not entitled to state benefits. These include agricultural workers, domestic help, those who are self-employed and state and municipal workers. (This month, new federal legislation provided that these workers be given unemployment benefits.)

Estimates also are made of unemployed persons who have not filed claims, persons entering the labor force for the first time and persons who have exhausted their claims.

Information gathered in "household checks" by the Bureau of Labor Statistics also is used to arrive at an unemployment rate.

The EDD releases figures monthly.

County statistics, which do not include retired persons, those under the age of 16 and those in the military or in college, show a disproportionate

Daly City Scrambles for Funds to Aid Unemployed

Daly City, like cities throughout the state, is today scrambling to get its application submitted in time to qualify for part of a $120 million federal grant aimed at hiring the unemployed in California.

Deadlines for application has been set for Friday.

The new law, called CETA Title VI funds (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) follows close on the heels of similar programs now under way.

City officials said the latest windfall is causing "all sorts of headaches," but is a welcome answer to the unemployment problem afflcting the city.

Daly City, with a population of some 70,000, has 1360 persons in the work force unemployed.

Under two federally financed programs in operation, the city will be able to provide about 10 per cent of these persons with jobs, either in government or with non-profit organizations.

T.HE Emergency Unemployment and Assistance Act was signed only last week — New Year's Day — by President Ford.

San Mateo County's share of the pie is some $1.68 million.

Monday, the Daly City City Council passed a resolution aurhorizing City Mgr. David Rowe to apply for the money.

Rowe told the council the unemployment situation in the city was fast becoming a "grave situation" and "dut to the gravity of unemployment (we) should move ahead quickly as possible."

No one appears to know how much money an individual city will receive under the act.

Rowe said details as to how much money is involved, how many positions that will be funded, or what the eligibility rules are, are not available at this time.

"Informal, unverified information indicates Daly City might receive as much as $500,000 — or enough to fund 50 to 60 temporary full-time positions for one year," Rowe said.

This depends on the salary levels approved by the council, it was explained.

The first inkling the city staff had of the availability of money under this new program was on Dec. 30, Rowe explained.

The funds are aimed at employing persons that have been unemployed for 30 days, or those who are what the government terms "underemployed."

Maximum salary which can be paid is $10,000 annually — without fringe benefits.

Community Service Center Direotor Alice Kessler told Rowe before the meeting her staff was working around-the-clock to meet the deadlines set forth under the program.

Mrs. Kessler said the center has some 1,000 names of unemployed persons on file and she would have no trouble finding persons to fill jobs available.

In other fund actions, the Community Manpower Council, District One, made its recommendations to the city on expenditure of some

San Bruno Mountain

Park Expansion Study Voted

The North San Mateo County Council of Cities Thursday voted to explore every possible avenue for expansion of a regional park on San Bruno Mountain through acquisition of more open space there.

The vote came on a moition presented by San Bruno councilman Tony Governale, made at the end of a lengthly meeting dominated by discussion on the future status of the huge undeveloped parcel of land.

Despite an impassioned plea from Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart, that the plans of the consultants — for Visitacion Ranchos be followed, the majority overwhelming supported Governale's motion.

Visitacion Ranchos has presented plans for a community of some 28,000, along with an estimated 1244 acres of lands for recreational and open space uses on the mountain.

Some persons, including Daly City Councilman William Schumacher, feel such a community will overpower the park use.

Schumacher said planning of the park cannot be divorced from the proposed community there.

John T. Brook, director of the county's Parks and Recreation Department, said the park is to be developed as a regional facility and not a community recreation area.

Community recreation facilities should be developed by individual cities, Brook explained.

Brook noted that while no one has said lands should not be acquired for open space, a notable number has suggested that not enough land is being acquired for the park.

County supervisors-elect John Ward and Bacciocco outlined their stands on development of the park.

Ward later told The Post he would seek ways and means of buying more lands for the park site.

He said he "generally supported" fellow supervisor Bacciocco's stand on the mountain.

Bacciocco told the city representatives attending the meeting in Brisbane that he would explore "all alternatives for park, residential and commercial planning for the mountain before deciding on the proper course of action."

He said the desireability of including Owl, and Buckeye Canyons, Brisbane Quarry and Brisbane Lagoon in the overall plan also must be weighed.

And he added there is a possibility that funding for the land acquisition may be available under the Golden Gate National Recreational Area act.

Bacciocco offered three approaches to determine the sphere of influence.

He suggested a division of interest based on watershed contours (For Example — Crocker Industrial Park to Brisbane, residential areas to Daly City), Assumption of responsibility of Daly City (to annex the mountain), or continuance of a County Service Area as now exists.

"None of these commits the county to a position without feasibility studies balancing the pros and cons on a scale calculated to define what is in the best public interest," Bacciocco said.

Bacciocco said he would, on the other hand, oppose any city "in and of itself," determining the quantity and quality of habitation tn the mountain.

Brisbane Mayor Anja Miller said the future status of the mountain was of paramount importance "to our small village" because of the lasting impact it will have socially, economically and on the environment.

Mrs. Miller argued that the mountain should be preserved in open space.

She revealed that four Golden Eagles and ruins of long abandoned Indian villages can be found in some of the deep canyons.

If these areas are open to the public, Stewart countered, there will be no eagles or villages left.

They, like everything else that has been "invaded" by the public, will disappear, Stewart said.

Stewart pointed to the mountain as a current dumping ground for garbage, a place where motorcycles roar along trails killing the flora, and grass fires abound in summer.

The only thing that will curb this, is to "put people on the mountain to keep others away."

Stewart agreed that there should be open space on the mountain.

No Problems Seen In Sewer Plant Expansion

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Armen Anooshian, of Resources Engineering & Management, consultant to the North San Mateo County Sanitation District, said Monday he anticipated no structural problems would be encountered in construction of the new expanded wastewater treatment facility in Daly City.

Structural planning of the $6 million plant, at the corner of Lake Merced Drive and John Daly Boulevard, is expected to start soon.

Last week, the Daly City Council approved a use permit and variance to the district, along with exchange of some small parcels of land in the Westlake Park area.

Structural design should be ready in about two months, Anooshian told a meeting of the district's board of directors.

Borings made by soils engineers revealed that deep pilings would not be needed.

There was no indication the structure would encounter any water problems "at this time."

Attorney Jim Morton said his main concern with the report was the engineer's statement "At this time."

Morton said the area has had a dry year thus far, and perhaps it would be wise to have subsequent borings made after the rainy season is over, as assurance there would indeed be no water problems.

It was explained by Anooshian that the same soils engineering firm has been retained to stay with the project during construction.

The engineer's qualifying statements regarding the borings was not unusual, Anooshian told the directors.

Director James Fitzgerald (San Mateo County supervisor) suggested engineers make another check of the borings following the recent rainfall.

However, director Tony Giammona (Daly City councilman) recommended the engineers wait until the end of January to make the recheck.

Chairman McRobert Stewart concurred with his fellow directors.

Asked how the response was from possible reclaimed water buyers, District Manager David Gehre said he had received several queries from local cemeteries.

Two potential water users — Pacific Gas & Electric and the Olympic Golf and Country Club — have not entered into any agreement with the district on purchase of the reclaimed water from the new water reclamation facility, Gehre said.

If these two agencies entered into agreement with the NSMCSD, they would together use up all available reclaimed water by 1982, it was explained.

PG&E has sent feelers to the district to see if they could supply some five million gallons daily for use to cool a proposed new power plant somewhere in the North County.

Stewart said water users, such as parks, cemeteries and golf courses, should be made aware of the fact the area's water table is fast diminishing and the only hope for replenishing this limited supply is by using reclaimed water.

Olivet Cemetery in Colma now uses an estimated 93 million gallons annually.

Man Dies of Wounds In Daly City Shooting

Daly City registered its first homicide of the new year Sunday when a 25-year-old man was shot in the abdomen with a .22-caliber handgun while visiting a friend in the city's Serramonte area.

The victim, Paul Sitschaka, 25, of 220 Linden Ave., Apt. 6, South San Francisco, died at Mary's Help Hospital about 1 a.m. Sunday, following surgery.

He had been shot once in the abdomen with a handgun, allegedly by an acquaintance, Bohdan M. Pankiw, 25, of 55 Del Monte Street, San Francisco.

The two men were visiting the home of Richard Grentzer, 20, at 95 Ward Court, Daly City, police said.

Police said Pankiw was toying with the gun. As Sitschka walked back into the room the gun discharged, hitting the victim in the abdomen.

Police Detective James Mendiera and Officer Ed Cota are continuing their investigation of the incident.

Pankiw was booked into City Jail for investigation of murder.

Crash Kills Pacifican

A 19-year-old Pacifica woman was the first highway fatality of the new year in San Mateo County, police report Jan. 2.

Victoria Lynn VanWinkle, 19, of 330 Loma Vista Terrace, was killed when she apparently lost control of her compact car traveling north on the Junipero Serra Freeway through Daly City about 5:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said Miss VanWinkle an unemployed nurse's aide, first hit a divider strip near the Eastmoor Avenue off-ramp, jumped the divider, became airborne for a few yards and flipped over, landing in the southbound lanes.

The victim was ejected from the vehicle.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at nearby Mary's Help Hospital shortly after the accident.

DC Schools Chief to Retire

After more than 18 years as superintendent of the Jefferson Union High School District, Edward D. Morgan has announced his retirement from that post effective June 27, 1975.

In an undated letter to the district's board of trustees, Morgan said he will have completed 38 years of teaching and administrative services on June 30, 1975.

Since 1956, Morgan has been head of the JUHSD.

"I have been fortunate to have had the privilege of working with a most cooperative and supportive group of board members, patrons, parents, students and staff," Morgan wrote.

EDWARD MORGAN

The support he has received has allowed the district to develop sound educational programs — programs that have been recognized for their excellence, Morgan said.

When Morgan started in the JUHSD there was one small school with an enrollment of 1,700 working with a small budget.

During Morgan's leadership, the district has mushroomed into six schools, 7,900 students (plus 4,500 adult students) and a budget last year of some $19 million.

The JUHSD is now North San Mateo County's largest business, Morgan pointed out

Morgan is presently out of the country, vacationing in Australia.

Word reaching the district's main office this week indicated Morgan, a widower, married the former Aileen Kelly, in Melbourne recently.

She was an art instructor at Westmoor High School in Daly City.

Few Layoffs in San Mateo County

A random check by The Post of major employers in San Mateo County revealed that few companies have initiated layoffs, excluding annual seasonal cutbacks, over the past four months, nor do they plan to curtail work forces in the near future.

However, all companies surveyed warned that they are conducting a day-to-day review of business trends to determine if they should plan layoffs, and most reported they placed a freeze on hiring.

Of the major employers contacted, only two said they were hiring: Lenkurt officials reported hiring some professionals, but no production personnel, and a Quality Foods Incorporated (QFI) spokesman said the firm was interviewing for various jobs.

United States Steel, which employs about 350 iron workers at its South San Francisco plant, plans no cutback in the work force. Spokesmen for Bethlehem Steel (with a work force of 375) and the Dubuque Meat Packing Co., both of South San Francisco, indicated the same.

United Parcel sources said the company would conduct "massive" layoffs of temporary personnel after the holidays at its South San Francisco depot, but that future cutbacks were not anticipated. It also was reported that there has been no drop in business over the past four months.

Ampex in Redwood City had laid off some personnel, but no formal program for further layoffs was anticipated.

However, a company spokesman said Ampex sales are slightly off, "and if we begin to feel the pressure, there may be some adjustments."

Few of the airlines are laying off personnel, although American has trimmed back on part-time help and sent out furlough notices recently to "10 or 15" fleet service and ground services employes.

The biggest employer in the county, United Airlines, has not laid off for several months, nor does it plan to in the immediate future. A hiring freeze, however, has been in effect for two years.

The airlines, it appears, have trimmed back about as far as they care to and forecast a "holding action" until the economy improves.

Some county firms have initiated temporary layoffs, including Xerox Corp. in South San Francisco, which shut down its plant Dec. 23 for the holidays.

Because of a slackening in demand for some of its products, 700 employes of the South City refurbishing center were on holiday until Jan. 6. At that time operations were scheduled to resume. However, officials have indicated workers' hours will be cut to four days a week.

The Employment Development Department said some medium-sized firms are temporarily laying off, but that the numbers are few.

Ed Chaplin of the EDD data and research division said generally in San Mateo County employment is down in the building trades, in durable goods manufacturing, and in paper and printing.

The Unemployment Scene

number of minorities and disabled persons unemployed.

Of the total black labor force, 10.1 per cent is unemployed; 6.7 per cent of Spanish Americans are jobless as are 12.9 per cent of disabled and handicapped persons.

Unemployment among black males is 10.4 per cent; black females, 9.7 per cent, Spanish-American males, 5.9 per cent; Spanish-American females, 8.4 per cent.

A total of 5.9 per cent of the Caucasian labor force in the county is out of work.

To illustrate how rapidly unemployment is increasing in San Mateo County, Chaplin compared the number of claims processed in the months of October, November and December of 1973 with the same months in 1974. Claims were taken from the two EDD offices in this county — San Mateo and South San Francisco — and the office in Palo Alto, which draws jobless from the southern end of the county.

October of 1974 showed a 33.9 per cent increase in claims over October 1973; November showed a 38.2 per cent increase and from Nov. 22 to Dec. 6 of 1974 a 27.5 per cent boost over the same period the year before.

Mrs. Betty Rogers, unemployment insurance supervisor at the EDD office in San Mateo, considers the county unemployment rate high, but says no one industry is responsible for the jobless rate increase.

"In many areas big industry layoffs, like the automotive industry, is solely responsible for the rise in unemployment. But here in San Mateo County, it's an across-the-board thing. We are getting workers from a variety of fields filing claims," she said.

"Construction is down more than it usually is at this time of year and we're getting more car salesmen and culinary workers and some stockbrokers. But basically it's little bits and pieces from all companies," she said.

Mrs. Rogers said before large companies initiate layoffs, they usually notify the EDD office. She said no large county firms have notified her.

The increase in the county unemployment rate, Mrs. Roger says, cannot be attributed to dismissal as much as to the hiring freeze initiated by many county firms. Some companies have not hired in two years and are trimming their work forces by attrition.

This, said Mrs. Rogers, is exemplified in the decreasing amount of job orders being placed at the EDD offices. She said they have fallen off drastically lately.

"We used to be able to place a person in three months, now it's up to about six months.

Because the employment picture continues to darken, Mrs. Rogers expresses some confusion over the number of workers who voluntarily leave the work force "for some of the dumbest reasons."

"It's true, because of the sagging economy we are getting more people here who have been dismissed, but it's amazing to me the amount of people who come in here and say they just quit. Especially now, these people are going to have a very hard time finding a job," she said.

Studies show, according to Doug Hayward, assistant regional administrator for EDD, that out of every 100 persons unemployed, 30 to 40 quit their jobs, 30 lost their jobs through no fault of their own and the balance includes retired persons who want to re-enter the work force and those entering the work force for the first time.

Of the county unemployment rate, George Jarrett, EDD San Mateo County office manager, said: "San Mateo is a stable county. Traditionally, there has been little flux in the unemployment rate. Things would have to get pretty severe nationwide before it really affected us here."

Next week: Aid to the unemployed.

In any given large geographical area, unemployment is higher in some communities within that area than in others.

Socio-economic conditions, such as ethnic background education levels, age and sex, generally are the criteria for high or low unemployment.

The list that follows shows the 12 largest communities in the county and the respective unemployment rate as of Dec. 1, 1974.

The North Fairoaks District near Redwood City has a high black and Spanish-American population, many of whom are unskilled. East Palo Alto and East Menlo Park are predominantly black communities, which also have a high concentration of unskilled workers.

Officials at the Employment Development Department point out that in times of rising unemployment it is generally the unskilled workers that lose their jobs first and have a difficult time finding new jobs.

Murders in DC Topped City's '74 List of Crimes

Murder topped the list of crimes committed in Daly City during the past year — up 100 per cent.

In 1973 there were only four murder or non-negligent manslaughter cases handled in the county's second largest city.

This figure catapulted to eight cases involving nine deaths in 1974, police department records show.

The year 1974 started with a double homicide and a suicide at the Wah-hin Leong residence on Mission Street. Pansy Leong drowned her infant child in the bathtub, shot her husband in bed and turned the gun on herself, police said.

Three days later — on Jan. 4 — Jane Doe, alias Charlotte Cook, was found on Thornton State Beach. She had been strangled by persons or person unknown, records indicate.

On May 4, the body of Lincoln Louie, victim of a San Francisco gang war, was found on a Daly City street where it had been dumped. There were eventually 10 arrests made in this case.

On June 16, Gilbert Gaines, of Talbert Street, San Francisco was taken to Mary's Help Hospital. It was first thought he had suffered an accidental head injury. A bullet was found lodged in his skull and police were called. The case is still open. Gaines was mysteriously shot inside his apartment.

July 27 was the last day in the life of Doris Williams. She was gunned down on the front lawn of a friend's home where she and other persons had gone to help the friend move some personal belongings to new quarters. A man inside the house pursued what he thought was a burglar, fired a handgun at the alleged intruder, and the bullet struck Miss Williams, police contend.

On August 18, police were called to investigate the stabbing death of Gordon H. Begeman. The victim was slain inside his Westlake area apartment, police said. His body was found on his bed.

An argument, police said, resulted in the shooting death of Larry Brandon on Sept. 18, in the Crocker Tract of the city. Floyd H. Shoupe was arrested in connection with the incident. He later plead guilty to involuntary manslaughter.

On Dec. 7, Scott Oberlin, an infant, died at Mary's Help Hospital, victim of what police called a "cruel beating." The child's mother, Linda Oberlin, was arrested and charged with the death.

The total crime rate in the city rose by 11.3 per cent, with the only exception to the general increase being in those cases involving grand larceny (thefts of over $50). This dropped by 8.8 per cent.

Rape rose by 20 per cent — to 12 cases over the previous year's 10 reported cases. Grand theft and auto theft rose 24 per cent and 26.6 per cent respectively.

Robberies climbed to 63 cases — up only 5.1 per cent.

Arrests of juveniles in all crimes increased 23.2 per cent, from 1,181 cases in 1973, to 1,456 cases in the past 12 months.

Funds

$152,000 in CETA TILTE II funds, Monday.

Of the dozens of requests submitted by 17 governmental, purblic and private agencies to fill jobs under the grant, the CMC recommended 14 jobs. City staff squeezed 18 positions on the list by cutting salaries.

Originally, the city understood the government would fund 18 jobs for one year.

It was later learned the federal government waned the monies used up by July.

In light of this, Daly City decided to hire twice as many persons for a shorter length of time.

It was explained that other persons would likely be hired in the near future.

Since October 1974, Daly City has received $380,000 in special money for aiding the unemployed, with rumors circulating that a like amount may be forthcoming soon.

"The money just keeps coming fast and furious," one city hall official said.

"What the government has failed to note, however, is that within six months the unemployment rolls will double — unless the money keeps coming in," he said.

It was learned, that the telegram, received two days ago by the city, instructed cities to all but disregard civil service rules in hiring and to expedite hiring of unemployed.

Councilman William Schumacher asked how a city could be assured those hired were indeed residents. He was told there is no security or personal background screening.

In the course of an individual's employment it is usually brought out whether he or she is a resident.

If it is found out they are not, the person is fired, it was learned.

Police Seek Coast Fugitive

By BOB HEMINGWAY

Daniel T. Lucero, 22, the ex-soldier who has been attempting to gain custody of his illegitimate son, is described in a probation report concerning his criminal activities as a "one man crime wave."

Lucero, a Pacifica resident, is being sought on a $1,000 bench warrant after failing to appear in San Mateo County Superior Court last week for sentencing on a misdemeanor burglary charge. He had been free without bail since his arrest last April 17 by South San Francisco police. He pleaded guilty July 23 when the charge was reduced to a misdemeanor.

In the probation report, Probation Officer G. F. O'Donnell recommends that Lucero be placed on three years probation on condition that he spend six months in county jail and submit to chemical testing for narcotics and to search and seizure at any time, day or night.

The report notes that in less than six months since his discharge from the Army, Lucero "has managed to have felony charges filed against him in three separate counties in the Bay Area."

Evidence links him to burglary, auto theft, possession of stolen property and possession of narcotics paraphernalia, O'Donnell says in the report.

Noting Lucero's efforts to gain custody of his son, who is now residing with foster parents, O'Donnell describes the defendant as a "manipulative individual" who, when he still was in the Army and beginning to get newspaper coverage of his efforts, turned the publicity to his own advantage.

Lucero was able to escape punishment for things that other soldiers would have been court-martialed for, the report states.

The defendant, described in the report as a "discipline problem in the service," won an honorable discharge. His former commanding officer said that Lucero qualified for a discharge due to unsuitability, O'Donnell reports.

Lucero's custody effort still is pending before the District Court of Appeal. A Superior Court decision of more than a year ago decreed that Lucero had legitimatized his son, now 3, and was entitled to custody. The decision was appealed to the higher court by the Department of Health and Welfare. The District Court of Appeal ordered that the youngster remain in the foster home until a decision is made on the appeal.

Code Changes

San Bruno Planning Commission Monday night voted unainmously to recommend to the City Council approval of various amendments to the city code establishing regulations for standard and sub-standard lots.

Chairman Leon Miller explained that the intent is to aim for larger lot sizes for proper development. He said it would not affect existing zoning.

The amendments pertain to lots in the light and medium commercial and light manufacturing zones and have to do with minimum building sites, setbacks, and maximum lot coverage, among other requirements.

Millbrae civil engineer Lou Arata opposed the proposal on behalf, he said, of a client who has a business on the southeast corner of Angus and Mastick avenues.

According to Arata, under the proposed amendments the property his client now owns (and is standard) will become substandard. His concern was that making it substandard may hurt a future desire by his client to sell a portion of his lot.

Daughter of Daly City Founder Dies at 105

Mrs. Lilly Daly George, daughter of the founder of Daly City, died Dec. 29 in San Francisco at the age of 105.

Mrs. George celebrated her birthday on Sept. 16.

She was the last surviving daughter of John Donald Daly.

Shortly before her birthday, The Post asked Mrs. George what she attributed her longevity to.

She replied:

"A robust lust for life. I love life and I love people. My father brought me up that way."

The most vivid recollections of her life centered around the 1906 earthquake and fire, she said.

Mrs. Lilly Daly George

Hundreds of refugees flocked to her father's Daly City farm where they stayed, without charge, until they could relocate.

The family home was then at 900 Guererro St., in San Francisco, and she recalled the fire stopped less than a block away from the huge turreted structure.

For a while after the tragedy she stayed with relatives in the San Joaquin Valley.

Private funeral services were held Dec. 31 at the Halstead & Company Mortuary in San Francisco.

Assault Charges Against DC Man

A man who is awaiting a court decision on charges of assault against a Daly City woman was arrested again by police Dec. 30 on similar charges against the same woman.

Cleveland Scott Jr., 24, of San Francisco was allegedly spotted by special policeman James Myrick of the Westlake patrol Dec. 29 forcing Camille Jones, 22, of 181 Park Plaza Drive into his car.

Detective Dennis Prator said Myrick recognized Scott from an earlier incident involving him and Miss Jones.

Some three months ago, Jones was arrested on similar charges stemming from an incident between himself and Miss Jones, Prator said.

Scott's preliminary hearing was held on the charges and the matter was bound over to Superior Court. No determination on the case has thus far been made.

Both Scott and Miss Jones are employed by San Francisco General Hospital, police said.

Scott is now booked on charges of assault with intent to commit murder; kidnapping and intimidation of a witness, Prator said.

Woman Shot Five Times; Husband Held for Assault

A South San Francisco man was arrested New Year's Day on a charge of assault with intent to murder his wife, who is reported in stable condition at the Kaiser Hospital intensive care unit.

Booked at the Daly City jail was Franklin G. Murray, 46, of 1245 Crestwood Drive.

His wife, Betty, 43, South San Francisco police report, was shot five times with a .22 caliber rifle. She suffered wounds to the upper half of her body.

According to police, the shooting followed a domestic quarrel at the couple's home at about 9:45 p.m.

Police said, after the shooting, Mrs. Murray "managed" to get to a neighbor's home. The neighbors, who were not identified, called police and transported Mrs. Murray to Kaiser Hospital.

Police said they responded to the Crestwood Drive home and arrested Franklin. Police said the suspect was found hiding under the house.

No other details were available.

Murray was arraigned in Northern Judicial Court Thursday.

America Travel Showcase at Serramonte

Discover America Travel Showcase, one of this country's most exciting exhibitions, will visit Serramonte Center from Jan. 8 to 12.

Sponsored nationally by the Discover America Travel Organization, Inc. (DATO), Discover America travel showcase is a first — the first national travel exhibition.

Discover America Travel Showcase has been created to stimulate and to encourage all Americans to discover the greatness of our Nation, to see and to know all the glories of our great Country — in short, to Discover America.

One of the major themes of the American Bi-Centennial is "Travel throughout the United States."

The Discover America program was established in 1965 by Congressional Resolution and Presidential Proclamation to increase travel to and within the United States.

The showcase is touring the nation for six years, beginning in 1971 and continuing through the U.S. Bicentennial in 1976. Placed on display in 34 specially selected, major, enclosed shopping centers each year, it is anticipated that it will be visited by more than 40 million Americans during the six year tour.

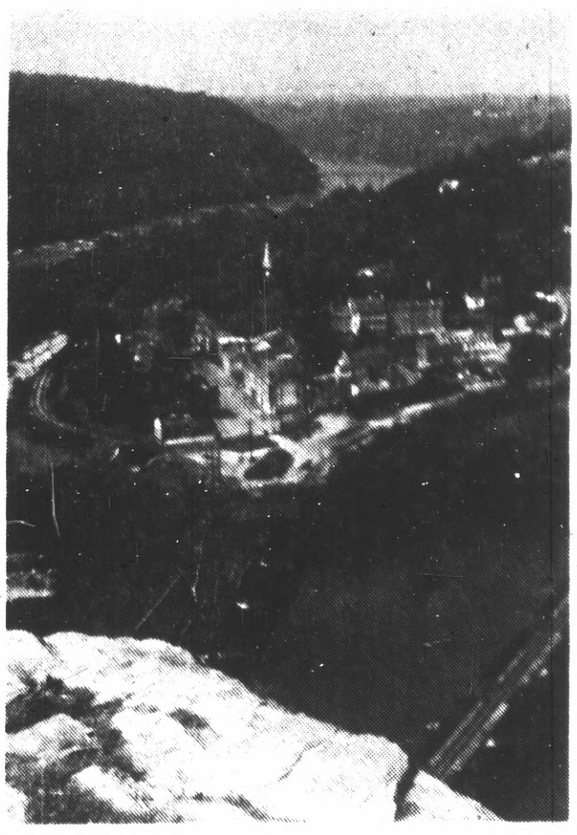
Discover America Travel Showcase is comprised of approximately 22 illuminated display modules which use dramatic color illustrations, motion displays, and employ photo projection, animation and special lighting effects to transport the viewer to exciting American places to visit and great American places to see.

Additionally, many displays contain historical artifacts from museums and interesting handicraft items from historic and well-known places.

Educational and historical values of the exhibition are such that school children are invited to attend the exhibition, accompanied by their teachers, on educational excursions.

Discover America Travel Showcase is accompanied by its own director, an expert in the field of national exhibition management. A souvenir newspaper about the exhibition and the cities, states, areas and attractions shown in the displays is distributed without charge.

In conclusion, Discover America Travel Showcase is an inspiring portrait of America. It is a glowing testimony to the magnificence and grandeur of our country. The exhibition is sponsored by Serramonte as a public service, and admission is free. Serramonte Center is located on Hiway 280 and Serramonte Boulevard in Daly City.



JOHN BROWN'S RAID

Harper's Ferry National Historical Park, site of John Brown's bloody raid in 1859, is located in West Virginia at the confluence of the Shenandoah and Potamac Rivers and dominated by the Blue Ridge Mountains. Discover America travel showcase currently is being shown at Serramonte Center and will remain until Sunday. Admission is free.

Deadline for State Scholarship Papers

Applications for State Graduate Fellowships in 1975-76 must be post-marked and sent to the State Scholarship and Loan Commission, Graduate Fellowship Section, by Jan. 15.

There will be approximately 800 new fellowships available which will pay up to full tuition and/or fees at any graduate or professional school which is located in California and is accredited by, or is a candidate for accreditation with, the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, or any law school which is accredited by the California State Bar Association.

State Graduate Fellowships are available only to students who will enter their first or their second year of graduate or professional school beginning Sept. 1, 1975.

As a result of the passage of AB 23 in the 1974 session of the Legislation, the commission will continue to select students of unusual ability and achievement and in addition, give consideration to students with substantial potential for success in graduate school who may come from a disadvantaged background.

All fellowship applicants will be required to submit test scores from either the Graduate Record Examination, the Law School Admission Test, the Dental Admission Test, the Medical College Admission Test, or the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business depending on the specific academic competition entered. No test scores will be accepted from tests taken after February 8, 1975, and students must request that scores from previous test administrations be sent to the Commission by that date.

Applications are available from the State Scholarship and Loan Commission, 1410 Fifth Street, Sacramento, California 95814, from the graduate and professional school offices, or financial aid offices.

Skyline Has Big Dream: Aquatic, Recreation Complex

By BOB PETERSON

In these stringent economic times it may be a bit presumptuous to plan a new multi-use aquatic and recreational facility for the north county's junior college.

But like the old adage says, as long as you're dreaming, dream big. And that's what they're doing at Skyline College in San Bruno.

Certainly Skyline President John Petersen and his staff are doing all they can to bring to fruition a proposed project which contains such diverse use possibilities that it no doubt will be given legitimate consideration.

Since the beginning of Skyline College construction in 1965 there has been discussion of building an indoor swimming pool at the facility.

That intent has now blossomed into a dream of constructing a multi-use facility that will not only include an Olympic-size pool, but a complete indoor track and other amenities, including classrooms.

Chief architect at this point is John Bestall, former assistant dean of instruction now turned facility planner. Bestall, who was facility planner for both Canada and Skyline in their embryo stages, has built a cardboard scale model of the planned new facility.

Petersen, who assigned Bestall this task, knows he's bucking a head wind with this vast proposal.

"In the present economic climate it will take a great deal of courage to consider this project," he said. "A lot depends on what kind of funding package we can develop. We're talking about a multi-million dollar structure. But it can be scaled down," he said.

Petersen says such a facility is direly needed. He cites increasing enrollment figures and the almost total lack in the North County of a multi-use recreational outlet for the general public.

"We intend to have heavy community use," said Petersen. "I think the expenditure of such a large sum of money has to be justified by more than giving instructions in swimming or a college water polo team."

Brainstorming on the proposed facility was going on all through 1974. Athletic director Walt Rilliet, and other staff members supplied Bestall with information that Bestall designed into the facility.

The model was built this fall. Included, at this point is a 50 meter pool with an electronic touch finish line plate, surrounded by a 220 yard running track. "The track at the Cow Palace is 160 yards," said Bestall.

At the opposite ends of the track special infields for long jump and pole vaulting are planned. There also are 56 classrooms and 45 offices designed into the structure.

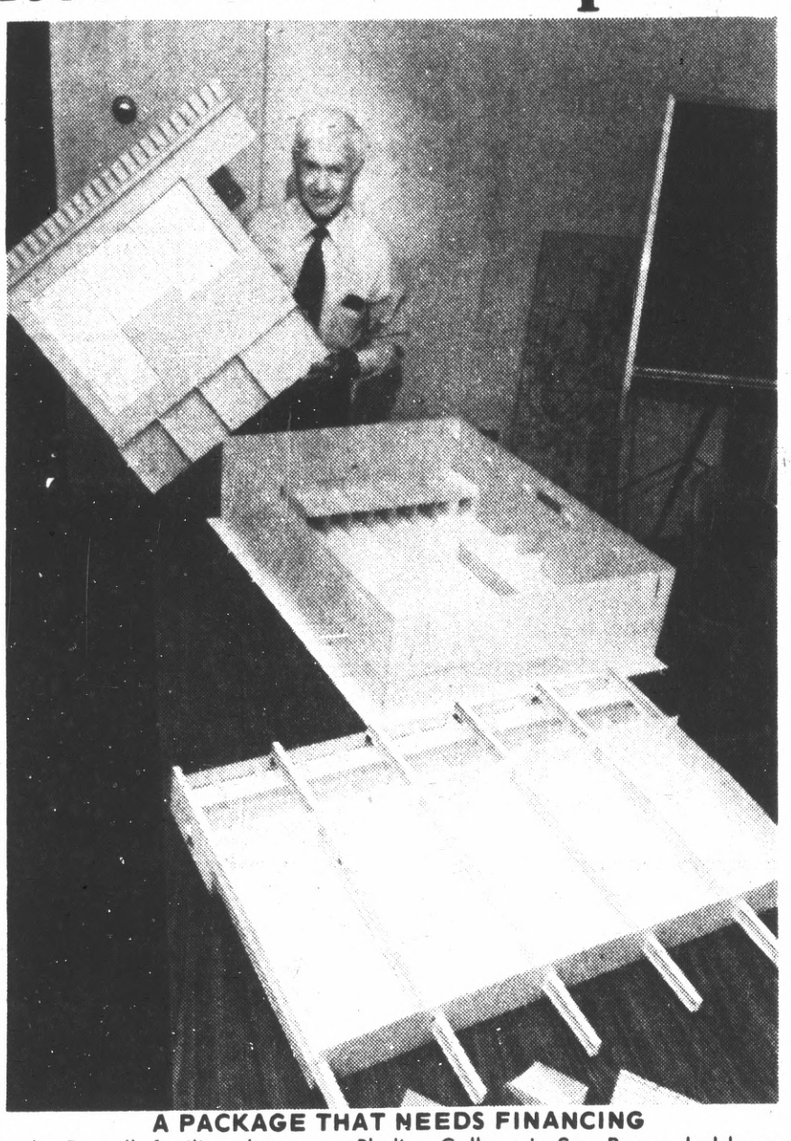
Then, too, is an area large enough for two basketball courts, or three volleyball, or eight badminton areas — all for women. "They could put on a complete AAU gymnastics event in that space," said Bestall.

He noted that the 2,300 seat bleacher section (which is foldable and moveable) allows spectators to simultaneously watch both swimming and track action without missing any of the action.

In addition, eight handball courts are planned, all built to Olympic standards, and allowing viewing capacity for 160 spectators.

Bestall said the five-story structure, which would measure almost 222 feet wide and nearly 300 feet long, resembles (in size only) a similar structure at an East Los Angeles school.

That facility, according to Bestall, is grossly misused, spacewise. He noted, for example, the East Los Angeles facility has concrete bleachers.



A PACKAGE THAT NEEDS FINANCING

John Bestall, facility planner at Skyline College in San Bruno, holds one section of a three-part scale model multi-use aquatic and recreation center being proposed for construction on the North County campus. Bestall, former dean of instruction, and also a teacher of drafting, created the model after receiving input mainly from the physical education staff.

"We have a chance here to do fabulous things with the same size building," he said. "We're thinking in terms of a 24-hour facility, for use by the elderly and the handicapped, who'll be able to take a wheel chair into a shallow part of the pool."

He also spoke of plenty of locker space, a hydro-therapy area, a child care center-health center combined unit at the facility's main entrance and ramps and elevators outside the structure as a space-saving measure.

According to Bestall, the two year old East Los Angeles facility, ("where there are no strong unions") was built at a cost of $1½ million. It's certain, he said, such a facility today would cost much more in the Bay Area.

"I don't know if such a sports palace will ever be built, or in what form," admitted Petersen. "The feasibility of it being done would improve if we can get some (financial) participation other than from the college district.

"I know the county has had a plan for a big swim complex at Belmont. I believe such a facility would be better located up here.

"The land is here. There's even additional space to develop more parking if that becomes necessary. The utilities are here, and a sophisticated staff to run it exists here," said Petersen.

The Belmont project he referred to was an estimated $2 million proposal pushed by former supervisor Ged Day as a regional aquatics complex at Ralston School to replace the existing 50-year-old Belameda Pool.

"The North County clearly needs something like this," said Petersen. "We're hoping for a joint college, county, community facility. We're going to look at every financing possibility."

The first hurdle, however, is to see whether the college district trustees will adopt such a plan. They've never been formally apprised of the specific proposal.

"They know we're planning a pool," said Petersen.

"We're trying to develop an interest in something we'd like to see happen," explained Petersen. "The county could reasonably put a major investment in this. There's more for the money than in the Belmont complex."

He admitted the economic situation was such that a school district would think twice about even a one-cent tax rate increase, although, he said, the district has 2½ cents available to levy.

"If funding could come from multiple sources it could be far more feasible," said Petersen. "It is our hope that this facility will be a number one priority in the completion of the district's master plan some time this spring.

"The trustees could then begin to work on a funding pattern with other interested agencies and an architect could be assigned to begin working on it. Even then," said Petersen, "completion would be three or four years away."

Fire Guts Apartment On Skyline

An early morning fire Dec. 30 gutted two apartments and did $25,000 damage at 2400 Skyline Blvd., Pacifica, according to Pacifica firemen.

Seven persons, including three children, managed to flee the apartments in time. Numerous residents of adjoining apartments were also evacuated during the fire.

Fire Capt. George Lobanoff reported that the lives of Melvina Hill and Penny Wycoff, residents of the upper apartment, were saved by their alarm clock going off at 5:15 a.m. By that time, their apartment was already filling with smoke.

Also, residents of the apartment just below, Dorothy Harvey, her mother and child, and two youngsters visiting from out of town, escaped uninjured.

Although the cause of the fire has not been determined, and investigation is still in progress, firemen believe that the fire started in the furnace areas of the apartments, traveling from one furnace to the other.

Preliminary investigation shows that the fire started in the lower story furnace area, spread to the upper area and into the floor joist area.

Some 14 men, with five pieces of equipment, fought the flames.

Galantino, McKeon Exchange Vows

Our Lady of Angels Church in Burlingame was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Gail Galantino and Timothy McKeon, who are honeymooning now in Southern California and Mexico.

The 1 p.m. ceremony was followed by a reception at the Machinist's Hall in Burlingame.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a white voile gown with Venise lace panels down the front and sides. A self ruffle detailed the costume's cameo neckline, cuffs and bishop sleeves as well as the hemline and sweeping train. Gail completed her look with a tiered veil with a Quaker lace bonnet and a bouquet of baby roses, yellow and white carnations and baby's breath.

A light dusty green knit gown with ivory Quaker lace at the square neckline and cuffs was chosen by Carla McDougle, the honor attendant for her sister. Similar dresses in forest green were worn by bridesmaids Judy Turner, Debbie Burgard, the bride's cousin, Peggy McKeon, sister of the bridegroom, and Judy McKeon, the bridegroom's sister-in-law.

Each attendant carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow and white carnations and baby's breath and wore a headpiece of similar flowers.

Timothy asked his brother, John McKeon, to be the best man. Ushers were Mike McKeon, another brother, Michael Francis, Pat McQuaid and Russel Nicolopolus.

The new Mrs. McKeon is a psychiatric nurse and her husband is a student at San Francisco State. They will make their first home in South San Francisco.

FRESCHET-POBUTA

San Mateo is the first address for Steven Scott Pobuta and his bride, the former Maureen Ann Freschet, who were married at St. Gregory's Catholic Church and honeymooned in Carmel and Los Angeles. Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Leno Freschet of San Mateo and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pobuta of South San Francisco.

Viola Gonzales Becomes a Bride

Our Lady of the Visitacion Church was the setting for the marriage of Viola Gonzales and Thomas J. Vergez.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Gonzales of Brisbane, who hosted a reception after the ceremony at Morelos Hall in South San Francisco.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Jean Vergez of San Francisco.

Viola asked her sister, Thelma Conklin, to be the honor attendant. Best man duties were performed by Robert Vergez, brother of the bridegroom.

Immediately after the reception, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in Carmel.

Bicentennial Commission Help Wanted

Mayor Terry Mirri has invited south San Francisco residents to apply for membership on the South San Francisco Bicentennial Commission.

Creation of the commission was voted by the South San Francisco City Council. Those interested may write to City Clerk Arthur Rodondi. The commission's task will be to work out an appropriate observance of the nation's 200th birthday, coming in 1976.

Mirri said South San Francisco's City Hall is a reproduction of Philadelphia's Independence Hall, where the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776 — and is the only such building still in use as a governmental center.

Phone Referral Service Begins at Mary's Help

Monday, a new health information and referral telephone service opened in San Mateo County. Titled the "Feeling Good" Telephone Line, the service will be staffed by the volunteers at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City.

The information and referral service is being established in conjunction with the "Feeling Good" health information television series currently being broadcast on KQED Channel 9. "Feeling Good" aims both to inform viewers and to motivate them towards healthier living.

In an attempt to extend the reach of the "Feeling Good" series, Mary's Help Hospital volunteers are establishing a "Feeling Good" Telephone Line for people who need information on health services in San Mateo County.

For the past several months, volunteers have been gathering information on health facilities and services in the county, and have assembled a "library" on the San Mateo County health services. In this task, they have worked closely with many local health agencies.

Any person in San Mateo County with a health problem can call the Feeling Good number — 992-5300. The Volunteer answering the phone will be prepared to refer the caller to an appropriate health agency in the caller's geographic area.

According to Bernadette Price, chairwoman for the telephone referral service, the volunteers will answer phones from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

There are nine counties participating in similar "Feeling Good" programs.

These services are being sponsored as a community outreach program by KQED. Bernadette Price said, "With the implementation of the Feeling Good Telephone Line, residents of San Mateo County will become better acquainted with the health services available to them."

For details on the Feeling Good Telephone Line, phone 992-5300.

Tickets for "It's a Woman's World", the fashion show and luncheon being sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women, will go on sale Jan. 18 between 10 a.m. and noon in the Our Lady of Mercy church hall on Elmwood Drive in the Westlake section of Daly City.

Mrs. James Dougherty, publicity chairwoman for the Westlake Catholic Women, reports that the show will be held on the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel on Feb. 1. Mrs. James McCann and her co-chairwoman, Mrs. Gonald Gianfermo, have announced the appointment of members of the fashion show and luncheon committee and the establishment of a $7 per person ticket price.

Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos is the reservations chairwoman and Mrs. Richard Galliani is her co-chairwoman. Information about reservations may be obtained by calling one or the other of the ladies at 756-0636 or 756-6312.

THE EL RANCHO Restaurant in Millbrae will be the site of the reunion of the Balboa Pioneers to be held Jan. 18.

Mrs. Rita Garcia Giron is in charge of the arrangements for this gathering of members of the Balboa High School graduation classes of 1931, 32 and 33.

For additional information about the reunion call Mrs. Giron, or write to her, 1344 Vista Grande, Millbrae, 94030.

MRS. MARY BREEN, publicity chairwoman for the Lake Merced Play School, is encouraging parents of preschool children on the Northern Peninsula to visit the school and consider applying for space in the class for the semester beginning in February.

Mrs. Linda Gibson, 878-9753, will answer questions about the non-profit, non-sectarian nursery school. She encourages interested parents to call her during the day for information or to arrange a visit to the school.

There is a lot of activity underway as the parents seek a replacement for Gail Schaferman the school's director. Miss Schaferman no longer resides in this area, and she finds the commute from Bekeley tiring, so the committee is asking persons with experience in directing a nursery school, to submit applications and resumes. For more information call the school, 755-5047 any morning.

THE FRIENDS outside tutoring program for the children of men or women in jail or prison resumed on Monday following a three week recess for the holidays.

Special tutoring sessions are held Monday evenings at [illegible] p.m. Parents or friends interested in having young persons take advantage of this program are asked to call the Friends Outside 661.6900, for more information.

DONNA LEE HENDERSON and Bill Flanagan will be the honored guests at a luncheon to be held at the Ranch Inn in Serramonte Jan. 28.

The occassion will be a duo one, Mrs. Henderson is leaving the shopping center to join the staff of the Fremont Hub shopping center and Flanagan will be replacing her as Serramonte's promotions director.

Hosting the luncheon will be Ted Wimberly, general manager of the Serramonte Shopping Center and Roy Tierney, president of the Serramonte Shopping Center and Roy Tierney, president of the Serramonte Center Merchants Association.

HOME AFTER ALMOST two weeks in Oregon, visiting with her sons and daughter-in-law and grandchildren, is Mrs. John Madrosen.

Mr. and Mrs. Madrosen spent Christmas with John Madrosen, Jr., and his family and their younger son Clark. Business called Madrosen back to the Bay Area after a few days, but Mrs. Madrosen was able to spend almost all of the school vacation period with her children and grandchildren.

VISITING FRIENDS on this side of the bay during the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Rogers and son Keith.

The Rogers family resided in Westlake for many years before moving to Concord. Mrs. Rogers is director of the Concord First Presbyterian Church Pre-school in Concord, and Rogers is employed in San Francisco by the telephone company.

ANOTHER FORMER Westlake resident returned during the holidays to wish local friends a happy new year. The Rev. Mr. David Brown and his wife and three young sons visited locally between Christmas and New Years. They currently make their home in Newark, California.

New artists appearing on the series for the first time are: Margaret Thornhill, clarinet; Dale Emde, tenor; Mildred Owen, mezzo soprano; and Madeline Ingram, harpsichord.

A duplicate Saturday evening series, also beginning at 8:30 p.m., will be divided between Skyline and Canada Colleges, with the opening and closing concerts scheduled at Skyline on Feb. 15 and May 31. The March 29 and April 26 concerts will be at Canada.

Third pair of concerts: Music for Harpsichord Alone; Vivaldi Sonata in G for Flute and Harpsichord; Composer-In-Residence William MacSems' String Quartet; Two Interludes for Violin, Flute and Harpsichord by Ibert; and the Bach Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D.

Fourth pair of concerts: Handel Cantata for Mezzo Soprano and Strings; Devienne Basson Quartet in C; Songs for Mezzo Soprano by Composer-In-Residence, Peter Sacco; a Duo for Bassoon and Cello by Couperin; and Ravel's Piano Trio in A minor.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

We've done so much fancy cooking and baking over the past month that we really deserve to be taken out to dinner for the next six nights. However the chances of this delightful prospect coming to pass are minimal, to put it optimistically, so we'd better think about what to fix for dinner.

This dish is an interesting combination of ground beef and the usual salad ingredients enhanced with tangy French dressing and served with tortilla chips, making a delicious main dish.

TACO SALAD

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- French Dressing
- ¼ teaspoon each salt and pepper
- 3 cups shredded lettuce
- 2 tomatoes, diced
- ¼ cup radish slices
- ¼ cup green onion slices
- 1 6-oz. package tortilla or corn chips
- 1 avocado, peeled and cubed
- 1 cup (4-oz.) shredded Sharp Natural Cheddar Cheese
- ½ cup pitted ripe olive slices
- ½ cup dairy sour cream

Brown the one and one-fourth pounds beef with the fourth cup onion; drain. Add one-fourth cup French dressing and one-fourth teaspoon each salt and pepper; simmer 5 minutes.

Last week's recipe for beef zucchini casserole had some errors in the list of ingredients. Let's try it again.

ZUCCHINI BEEF CASSEROLE

- 1¼ pounds zucchini
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 pound ground beef
- ½ teaspoon salt (additional)
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 large onion, chopped fine
- 3 stalks celery, chopped
- 1 1-pound tomatoes
- 1 can tomato paste
- ½ pound pasteurized process cheese spread, sliced
- two-thirds cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cut the one and one-fourth pounds zucchini in pieces, cover with water, add three-fourths teaspoon salt and boil about five minutes, until tender. Pour into collander and allow to drain, while you prepare rest of recipe.

In large skillet, brown the pound ground beef sprinkled with the half teaspoon salt. Add the one clove minced garlic, one chopped onion, three stalks chopped celery, one pound can tomatoes and one can tomato paste. Stir well and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Add more salt, if needed, and pepper to taste. Turn into large ungreased baking dish and cover with cheese slices. Lastly sprinkle with the two-thirds cup Parmesan cheese. Bake, uncovered, in 350-degree oven until it bubbles, about 20 minutes if ingredients are hot.

However if you make the dish the night before, it takes longer for the dish to bubble, about 45 minutes.

TRIP TO DISNEYLAND

The Westlake Catholic Women are planning their 21st annual fashion show luncheon, under the chairmanship of Mrs. James McCann. "It's a Woman's World" is this year's theme for the traditional affair, held in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel. Feb. 1, at noon, is the date chosen for the occasion; and chairwomen (from left) Mrs. Harry Lindner, hostess; Mrs. John Zuffo, investments; Mrs. Donald Gianfermo, fashion show, and Mrs. Robert Brizuela, door prize, are wondering who the lucky winner will be who will take a trip to Disneyland. A cash prize, and portable television, including the trip to Disneyland for two, are among the many door prizes to be given away during the luncheon.

International Women's Year Activities Slated

San Mateo County's luncheon launching International Women's Year will take place on Jan. 11 at the San Mateo Elks Club. Sponsored by the Golden West Chapter 99's in conjunction with the Redwood City Area Club of Zonta International, the luncheon is one of a number that will take place throughout the country on that day.

A social hour at 11 a.m. will precede a noon luncheon and fashion show. The program will begin at 1 p.m. and consist of short talks by women in the fields of aeronautical sciences, astronomy, atomic science, atmosphere and space, including aviation. A question and answer period will take place.

Announcements and reservations forms have been sent to as many men's and women's organizations in San Mateo County as possible.

However, the luncheon is open to all interested persons. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Norman Grant, 3802 Kenwood Avenue, San Mateo, 94403. Deadline is Monday.

The General Assembly of the United Nations, by Resolution 3010, proclaimed 1975 as International Women's Year. The proclamation calls for intensified action to meet the needs, develop the capabilities and utilize the skills of women. Some special area of activity for women will be highlighted each month.

Jan. 11 has been selected as the kickoff day because it is the day that Amelia Earhart left Hawaii on her first record-breaking solo flight to Oakland. Zonta International proclaimed Jan. 11 as Amelia Earhart Day in 1938. For more than 35 years, Zontians and 99's have joined together to salute the winners of the "AE" fellowship awards granted to women throughout the world for graduate study in Aviation and Aerospace. The 99's also celebrate the awarding of Amelia Earheart Scholarships to women pilots for advanced training in the field.

Kaiser Contract Approved

A new contract calling for a 23 per cent boost in wages and fringe benefits over the next two years has been approved by Kaiser Foundation and Hospital Workers Union Local 250.

The new contract is retroactive to Oct. 29 and covers 4,600 professional, technical, patient care and clerical workers in 14 Northern California Kaiser hospitals and clinics, including hospitals in South San Francisco and Redwood City.

A Kaiser spokesman said recent cost hikes in the prepaid medical plan anticipated these pay increases and the new contract wouldn't lead to another cost jump.

The new two-year pact replaces the expiring one-year contract, signed last year after a 10-day strike in December, 1973 against the Kaiser system. Kaiser and two hospital associations also were hit by a nurses' strike in mid-1974, settling in June with the California Nurses Association. New contract negotiations with the CNA now are to reopen.

The hospital workers settlement, based on recommendations of labor consultant John Kagel, calls for wage increases of 42 to 66 cents an hour, or an average of 9.3 per cent, for the first year, with an 8.5 per cent across the board boost set for next October.

There also will be increased pension benefits as of July 1, an improved dental plan, increased night pay differential, pay in lieu of fringe benefits for temporary employes and a Martin Luther King memorial holiday starting April 4, 1976.

New Governor

As governor of California, Edmund Gerald Brown Jr. controls more land than Charlemagne conquered, rules more people than Henry the Eighth, leads a staff of government that is larger than Washington's army and spends a larger budget than that given to some presidents of the United States who have served during the 20th century.

The governor of California administers a department so large it contains 40-or-more major divisions, and although it seems trite to say it — it touches every phase of California life. His duties are cited in the California Handbook: "The Governor is the chief executive of California state government. He is responsibible for planning, organizing and directing most state departments and agencies within the executive branch. Responsible for developing executive policy and programs. Commander-in-Chief of the California National Guard. Responsible for declaring states of emergency and disaster and for directing state resources during emergency situations. Appoints most department heads and members of the state boards and commissions. Presents annual messages and the state budget to the legislature and may propose legislation. Approves or vetoes legislative enactments. Has power to grant pardons, reprieves and commutations of sentence."

All this power now rests upon the shoulders of a man 35 years old.

But Jerry Brown is not the youngest man to govern California. J. Neely Johnson was 31 in 1856, when he was elected as the fourth governor, as the candidate of a party known as the Know-Nothings.

In 1860 Milton S. Latham, 33 years old, served as governor for five days before he resigned to become a United States senator. His successor was another 33-year-old, John G. Downey. On a day after he had vetoed an important bill, he strolled down Montgomery Street in San Francisco, where he met two businessmen, Henry A. Cobb and John Middleton. They began to talk and soon turned to arguing. Governor Downey grew so angry he called Middleton a "Bulkheader." Middleton retorted that California was governed by a man who was "either asleep or tight" whereupon Governor Downey struck Middleton a sharp blow on his forehead thereby creating a reputation as the brawling governor of California.

Jerry Brown is California's 33rd governor. Five of them became United States senators; several served as congressmen; five held diplomatic posts; two were vice-presidential candidates; several were strong contenders for a presidential nomination; one became Chief Justice of the United States.

Before coming to California, Governor Peter H. Burnett served as a judge of the Oregon State Supreme Court; Governor Weller represented Ohio in the U.S. Congress; Governor Stoneman came to California as a non-Mormon officer of the Mormon Battalion and later served as a major general in the Civil War; Governor Pardee was a medical doctor who mastered the art of politics; Governor Merriam served as state auditor of the State of Iowa; Governor Olson once served as a member of the Utah State Senate.

Portraits and biographies of California's governors may be found in a book entitled "The Governors of California: Peter H. Burnett to Edmund G. Brown" by H. Brett Melendy and Benjamin F. Gilbert. While it does not contain information about Ronald Reagan and Jerry Brown, it is a significant book; one that has been widely read. Critics have termed it as "an invaluable reference work for California schools, colleges and libraries.

Maritime Academy Tests Scheduled

Entrance examinations will be held at the California Maritime Academy in Vallejo on the first Saturday of each month, January through June, at 9 a.m.

High school graduates and nigh school seniors having an interest in the maritime industry — both afloat and ashire — are urged to sit for the examination. No pre-registration is necessary. There is no fee for this examination.

The California Maritime Academy is operated by the State of California to prepare young men and women for service as officers of the American Merchant Marine.

The course of instruction is four years in length, and the graduate receives a federal license as a merchant marine officer. He also receives, in accordance with provisions of the State of California Education Code, a Bachelor of Science degree in either Nautical Industrial Technology or Marine Engineering Technology. Additionally, those graduates who qualify receive commissions as ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve (In-active). Costs of the program are borne by the State of California, the Federal Government, and the student.

Requirements for admission are: Be an unmarried citizen of the United States; be at least 17 years of age and not have reached the age of 24 at time of admission (27 for veterans); be a high school graduate, and meet prescribed mental and physical requirements.

Admission to the Academy is without regard to race, color, creed or national origin.

Starting salaries for most CMA grads is $900-$1,000 per month for shoreside work and $1,075 plus 35 per cent to 110 per cent overtime per month, for sea-going jobs.

The school's job placement office is unable to find enough graduates to fill the job requests from industry at present.

Persons making application to the Academy are not required to take the CMA exam if they have already taken the SAT or ACT tests, but may do so if they wish.

For further information about the Academy or the examinations, contact the Director of Admissions, California Maritime Academy, Vallejo, CA 94590.

Scouting Officials To Meet

Scouting commissioners will meet at Northern District Commissioner Bill Proctor's home today. All unit commissioners should contact Mr. Proctor at 755-8573 for details.

Sustaining Membership Enrollment, SME, training for district, community and family campaign workers will be held on Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. at the Scouting Center. This is an extremely important training session according to Northern District Chairman Alvin L. (Al) Schwarzbach.

Jan. 11 the Order of the Arrow will hold executive training and at 10 a.m. at the West Orange Library in South San Francisco, a CUBBING CONGRESS invites all cubmasters, committee chairmen and coaches to discuss their Scouting needs.

GIRL SCOUTING

LORELEI MORINO and KAREN SCHWARZBACH, both of Daly City, are the voices you will hear from Jan. 10-19 on radio station KABL in conjunction with the Girl Scout cookie sale.

Lorelei is a Brownie member of troop No. 1810 and a student at Vista Grande school. Karen is a Cadette Scout in troop No. 716 and a student at Ben Franklin Intermediate.

GIRL SCOUT COOKIE SALES begin Friday, Jan. 10 with five types of cookies on sale from local Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts, for $1.25 per box.

Each troop receives 13 cents per box to provide program for girls. Fifty-four cents may be credited to each girl's Share of Belonging. All profits stay within the five counties of the San Francisco Bay Area.

Cookies available are mint creme centers covered with chocolate, shortbread sugar-sprinkled wafers in a trefoil shape, vanilla wafers topped with peanut butter and covered with chocolate, a vanilla creme centered sandwich cookie and a new cookie to Bay Area sales, a chocolate chip variety.

According to the San Francisco office of the Internal Revenue Service, the entire cost of the cookies is a tax deduction. Troops will be vying for two nights free use of camping sites, one award for each troop selling the most cookies and one award for each troop selling the most cookies per girl. Both awards will be given in every city in the area. Daly City chairwoman is Mrs. Mary Ridge.

SCOUTLOOK, edited locally by Mrs. Becky Burke, will be mailed in bulk from the Oakland Scouting Center, tomorrow, and is expected to reach local Scouters sometime late this week or early next week.

CADETTE Girl Scouts of troop No. 1586 led by Mrs. Diane Holder recently donated toys to the Firehouse on Lincoln Avenue in Daly City as part of their community service requirements.

Scouts participating included Shirley Calvo, Jeanette Bess and Dawne Holder. All troop members participated in the party during the holidays given for Brownie troop No. 1711 led by Mrs. Alice Russell.

Cadettes served refreshments, played games and awarded prizes to the younger Scouts. These activities were planned by the girls as part of their Challenge of social dependability, a prelude to earning the First Class Girl Scout Badge, the highest award available to the girl in Scouting.

Hearings on Housing Slated

Four public meetings have been scheduled for early this month by the Citizens' Task Force for Housing and Community Development to receive public comment and suggestions as to how federal funding for such projects should be utilized.

San Mateo County is scheduled to receive $8 million during the next three years through the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

Federal law requires that in order to qualify for the funds, the county must provide for citizen participation in the development of the application for funding.

The Task Force will solicit ideas concerning county housing needs and how the Board of Supervisors should geographically allocate federally assisted units to be made available this year, according to Paul Bowlds, a member of the County Economic Opportunity Commission research and development unit.

"The intent of the Housing and Community Development Act is to reduce blight and determination in local communities, with an emphasis on the needs of low and moderate income residents," Bowlds said.

Possible uses of funding include code enforcement programs, rehabilitation, street and lighting improvements, senior centers and other facilities, such as parks and playgrounds, he noted.

The public meetings and their locations:

- Wednesday, Jan. 8, 8 p.m., Half Moon Bay Library.
- Thursday, Jan. 9, 8 p.m., San Bruno City Hall.
- Wednesday, Jan. 15, 8 p.m., North Fair Oaks Community Center, Redwood City.
- Thursday, Jan. 16, 8 p.m., Pacifica City Council chambers.

Free Towing Service On State Bridges

The state's motorists are intitled to free tow service on state-owned toll bridges, thanks to legislation sponsored by San Mateo Assemblyman Dixon Arnett.

The mandatory fee of $7.50 was removed in an action that Vernon Richey, deputy district director — Toll Bridges, feels will clear roadways quicker, reduce chances of accidents, cut motoring delays and improve patron relations.

The State Department of Transportation also feels that it will encourage patrons "to take advantage of their prompt, professionally trained tow service crew.

Emergency call boxes are available on all toll bridges, in most cases will be within 150 feet of any stalled or broken-down vehicle.

A SDT release notes that all emergency roadside services on the state-owned toll bridges now will be furnished without charge; a charge for other services, such as gasoline, was eliminated in 1973.

Affected bridges include San Mateo-Hayward; San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge; Dumbarton, Richmond-San Rafael; Benicia-Martinez; Carquinez, Vincent Thomas and San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridges.

SSF Asks State to Pay Costs

The South San Francisco City Council wants the state to pay for setting up a universal emergency number, the 911 system.

Preliminary estimates, says the council in a resolution, show that costs for setting up such a system within San Mateo County may reach as much as $14 million for the first five years of operation.

Cities are required, under Assembly Bill 515, to develop 911 emergency phone systems by December, 1982. Already, considerable staff time and funds have been spent in this county to develop such a system, the resolution states. The council says that Senate Bill 90 provides that the intent of the legislature is for the state to pay for programs which it mandates.

On Nov. 27, Bill Brandenburg, at a meeting of the San Mateo Area 911 Committee, said the law sets a deadline of Jan. 31, 1975 for each city to submit a 911 tentative plan.

THE PERFECT HOST

Barossa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon, 5th

Shenson's Corned Beef may be a welcome change from the more rich-tasting food of the holiday season. A well-balanced red wine to serve with this meat would be Barossa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon (pronounced Cab-er-nay So-vee-non). This is a smooth, sturdy wine with a pleasing bouquet. It is an import from Australia.

For full enjoyment, remove the cork an hour before serving and serve at room temperature.

Barossa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon is a value at $2.49 a fifth.

SSF Needs Catching Up During 1975

By JACK BIK

South San Francisco has a lot of catching up to do.

This was the sentiment expressed at a recent City Council meeting by a top city official — and it seems to epitomize the policy that city fathers are now following.

Biggest decision made in 1974 was to go ahead with creation of a $4½ million fire-police complex, by a lease-purchase plan, after a bond issue for the project narrowly missed winning the required two-thirds vote. Councilmen made the decision in spite of a petition signed by more than a thousands persons threatening a recall.

Mayor Terry Mirri feels that the city had constantly been putting off needed projects, and improvements, until they had become too expensive.

One such project, a City Hall addition, was temporarily abandoned this year after bids came in far too high. The city, however, is going ahead with other projects, such as a City Hall arbor and plaza, approved last month.

The Colma Creek flood control project, after 20 years, finally will be started this summer. A prelude to this project, the Spruce Avenue Bridge, is proceeding ahead of schedule, aided by good building weather.

A major event of the year was the sudden closing of the Magnolia Avenue Center, by the Parks and Recreation Commission. This was followed by completion of a temporary recreation department senior citizen center on Grand Avenue, last week, and leasing of a former bowling alley for department office space.

The next few months should see a good deal of public debate over a new community center. Some argue for a single comprehensive center to serve the entire city, others urge that many small centers be built to serve the neighborhoods. Erection of a $105,000 community center in the newly-completed Westborough Park was deferred by the council pending a staff recommendation.

Meanwhile, architect George Avanessian is conducting a study for a new corporation yard, to store and maintain city equipment, in a large field acquired by the city in 1974.

This facility will free a large area of Orange Memorial Park for recreation use, and for a possible site for a community center. In any event, a major remodeling of the park is slated for 1975.

Meanwhile, during 1974, the city started proceedings to acquire a 1.8-acre addition to Buri Buri Park. The city now will seek, in 1975, to acquire the Arroyo Park, bordering Junipero Serra and Westborough Boulevards, from the county.

Helping South San Francisco pay for this project is the city's continually expanding tax-base, which is one of the lowest tax-rates in the county.

Under construction in South San Francisco is a two-story medical center at Westborough and Gellert Boulevards. Nearby on Gellert a multi-million-dollar, 35-acre shopping-office complex is being planned. Included will be major stores, office buildings and restaurants. This project will involve annexation of more land to South San Francisco.

The coming year will see construction of more homes, mostly condominiums, townhouses and apartments at Westborough. These include Grubb & Ellis' Colina, the 118-unit Braewood No. 3 project, and the Snyder Company's townhouses. Plans for a 10-acre site, on Westborough Boulevard and Oakmont, for 125 dwelling units will be formerly presented next year.

A third unit of Stonegate Ridge will be built atop Sign Hill.

Also under study is a 480-acre project, of which 172 acres can be developed, on the slopes of San Bruno Mountain, overlooking Hillside Boulevard. Unless proparks forces can halt the project, it will add 980 dwellings to South San Francisco. It will involve an annexation to the city.

Remodeling of the city's largest store, vacant since White Front closed several years ago, has begun for the Treasury discount store.

Further development for the "Industrial City" is on its way. Richard Diodati plans to construct a complex of buildings on three oversize lots on Littlefield Avenue. The first building is planned for 100,000 square feet.

The Di Salvo Trucking Co. will be building a giant trucking terminal off of Forbes Boulevard.

Meanwhile, a study on expansion of the Oyster Point Marina — slated to create a commercial-recreation complex — is expected to be completed in 1975. The marina will become the center of a shoreline park, opening the bayside to the public. The new boundary lines of the park are expected to be settled by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, this week.

Thus, South San Francisco will continue to grow, rapidly. This time, the City Council plans to make sure that city facilities keep pace with growth.

First 1975 Baby

"We don't even have a name for you yet," a bubbling Mrs. June Kafka told her brand-new son when he came to visit for the first time in the Mills Hospital maternaity ward at 9 a.m. Jan. 1.

Blue-eyed infant Kafka was the first baby born in 1975 in a San Mateo County hospital, arriving at 2:05 a.m.

Mrs. Kafka and husband Dennis reside at 1311 Redwood Way, Pacifica, and the new baby is their first. Kafka is employed by Pacific Telephone Co.

The healthy new addition weighed in at eight-pounds, four-ounces and was 20-inches long.

Mrs. Kafka was a teacher's aide until two months ago, but said she didn't think she would go back now.

"I think he takes after his dad, but it's a little hard to tell now," Mrs. Kafka said as she looked into her son's face. The infant stared back, reaching out then to touch her jaw.

The admiring audience Wednesday morning included three other mothers in the ward who had had their babies earlier in the week.

Young Kafka arrived nearly 4½ hours before the second baby of the year in this county, born at 6:27 a.m. at Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City. Mrs. Patricia Emeret, 996 15th Ave., Redwood City, gave birth to a seven-pound, two-ounce boy.

SSF Youth Wounded

Sheriff's investigators pla to question two youths cor cerning the shooting of third youth on San Brun Mountain Dec. 31.

Asst. Sheriff Eugene Stewart reported that Vincent J. Riccobuano, 17, of 64 Spruce St., and a friend, Allyn K. Richterman, 16, of 2445 Tipperary St., both of South San Francisco, were riding their motorcycles on the mountain about 12:30 p.m. when they passed two youths carrying guns.

They were about 40 yard beyond the latter two, Ric cobuano told sheriff's dept ties, when he felt a stingin sensation in the buttocks. H returned home and his fathe took him to a doctor who said the boy had been hit by a .22 caliber bullet.

Stewart said one of the youths carrying the guns was recognized by the victim.

Mabuhay Gardens Family Supperclub

The Mabuhay Gardens is a warmly atmospheric supperclub that is also unique to North Beach because it features Filipino food—a flavorful mixture of Chinese, Spanish, Indonesian, Malaysian and American dishes.

Currently, Eddie Mesa, who is known as the Philippine answer to Elvis Presley, is sharing the stage with the lovely vocalist Norma Balagtas.

"Spotlight on Show Business" Finocchio's

Finocchio's, a world-famous nightclub on San Francisco's Broadway, is currently presenting what Owners Joe and Eve Finocchio feel is the best show in their nitery's 38-year history. Their "Spotlight on Show Business" revue features an all-star cast of female impersonators, comics and singers, as well as puppet master George Buchanan. Four shows nightly, Wednesdays through Sunday . . . Enrico Romano, owner of Romano's Italian restaurant in Pacifica's Rockaway Beach, goes to great trouble to see that you get just the right combination of ingredients atop every pizza, which come in small, medium and extra large sizes. Enrico continues to demonstrate that he is the "Anchovy Apostle" among pizza makers . . . Besides being a much chosen place for pre-theater dining for those attending performances at nearby Circle Star Theater, Scotty Campbell's restaurant in Redwood City is a favorite dining spot for restaurateurs and club owners from all over the Bay Area on their nights off .

Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco won't have much of a "breather" after the busy Holiday season. Phil is already getting a flock of reservations for cocktail and dinner parties in the elegant Wellington Room during the big International Optical convention, opening Wednesday . . . Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant provides an extensive menu, with selections ranging from soups, salads, paste specialties, sandwiches, steaks, Italian selections, casserole dishes, eggs and omelettes, and seafood selections. A shell fish favorite here is Bouillabaisse (lazy man's combination cioppino) out of the shell .

If you've been fighting the battle of the bulge during the Holidays (and losing) you'll be happy to learn that Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant in San Francisco serves an enticing selection of delicious specialties that pamper your palate while they help you get the waistline back in shape. At luncheon, order one of their delicious salads. And at dinner, diet deliciously on light, flavorful seafood dishes like Icelandic baby lobster tails . . . Breakfast, cocktails, hof-brau, complete salad bar, and sandwiches to-go tells the whole story at Christopher's in downtown San Mateo. And as something very special, a Mini Breakfast (with three different combinations to choose from) is served from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m .

This is the season for ski buffs to take to the Sierra for "ski sprees," and what better way (and economically) to enjoy the winter activity than by arranging for one of the Drive-Up Packages offered by Nevada Tours to South Lake Tahoe or Reno. Winter rates are now available and the packages are featured seven days a week. For further information, call Kay (345-0488), and also ask about their bonus values . . . Nick's, The Moonraker, and Captain Charles, all located along the shores of picturesque Rockaway Beach at Pacifica, have earned an increasingly large, loyal clientele, not only for their unique location, but also for the consistent quality of their cuisine. This restaurant beach frontage is a mecca for boating and surfing enthusiasts, fishermen, businessmen, and diners who combine a pleasant drive with their quest for good food . . . When diners think of Adrian Stickney's various Hick'ry House restaurants, they automatically think of the succulent barbecued meats that are synonymous with all of the Stickney's locations. Quality meats and a special Hick'ry House barbecue sauce are big taste factors behind the success of the many barbecued items served here.

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

'Horatio' — A Success Story

Playwright Ron Whyte had been compiling a five year study of American popular literature while doing graduate work at Yale. He felt it was a personal contribution to the bicentennial celebration in 1975.

That's how he came upon the books of Horatio Alger Jr. which led to a fascination with this "great myth-maker" whose more than 100 books for boys that he wrote in the last three decades of the 19th century became the credo of the American success story.

The play "Horatio" resulted and is currently in the American Conservatory Theater repertoire at the Geary Theater. It was first produced in St. Louis in 1972 and later at Arena Stage, Washington, D.C. after the 27-year-old received his M.F.A. in playwriting from Yale. The musical score is made up of "a kind of junkyard of 19th century American music, a potpourri of styles and forms of that era," by Mel Marvin with whom the author has collaborated before.

"Alger wrote for teen-age boys and was the biggest selling and most influential writer in this country for 30 or 40 years between 1885 and World War I. As far as prose style is concerned, Alger is as great as Faulkner. Its intensity is such that he transcends all the hack writing of that period.

"But when you read him carefully and find that what has since become the ethic of the 20th century, his statement that if you work hard and keep your nose clean that you can become President one day, even if you start out as a bootblack or newsboy, isn't what he was saying at all. It's been misunderstood by millions, in my view, especially by immigrants like my parents who become indoctrinated with that philosophy somewhere between Ellis Island and Black Eagle, Mont., where they settled.

"What he was saying is 'work hard and be virtuous so that if and when that lucky break occurs, you'll be able to take advantage of it ,and grab it quickly. He wasn't advocating virtue and hard work for its own sake.

"Alger helped create the middle class, probably he helped to pull down the rich and pull up the poor. You might call him father of the middle class. But little is known of his life because the author of what has been regarded as a definitive biography, (Herbert R. Mayes who wrote it in 1928) shocked scholars in 1973 by admitting that it was a hoax. By that time, it had been referred to, quoted and used by subsequent biographers for 45 years.

"We deliberately tried to walk a tightrope of ambiguity so that the audience can decide whether I have captured Alger, not the historic one but the psychic one. It's done somewhat like cabaret theater with 42 fast-moving scenes and staged by James Dunn (formerly director of the California Shakespeare Theater in Old Town, Los Gatos) in the Brechtian sense of presentational style.

"Its amazing but one third of Yale's popular art collection has disappeared from the shelves. Edgar Rice Burroughs books are all gone, as are those of Laura Lee Hope and L. Frank Baum who wrote the "Oz" books. Mrs. Eden Southworth is totally forgotten and was a major author of the time. We've got to start preserving our Peyton Places."

Schwarzbach Files For JESD Trustee

Accompanied by two of his children who are students in the district, Alvin L. (Al) Schwarzbach recently filed papers as a candidate for the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees.

Schwarzbach, elected in 1974 to fill a previously unexpired term, was accompanied by his daughter Karen, age 13, an eigth grade student at Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School, and his son David, age 6, a first grade student at Christopher Columbus School.

His family includes his wife Denise, book fair chairwoman of the Friends of the Daly City Library, and his daughter, Leslie, a sophomore at Serramonte High School. Schwarzbach currently is serving as a board member of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council and is Northern District chairman of the San Mateo County Council, Boy Scouts of America.

In filing his notice of candidacy, he stated that his qualifications will enable him "to continue to make a strong, practical and positive contribution towards educational quality and excellence in the Jefferson Elementary School District."

His position on the JESD board is a volunteer activity as he has waived the $20 per meeting gratuity available to trustees.

Predictions

Continuing our continuing effort to expose as fools those who make predictions on sports — especially in print — we cite the Sporting News Preseason All American team, as prognosticated in their Sept. 7 issue last year. We won't bore the reader with the entire selection (you'll have to trust us), but will merely point out where they went wrong. Incidentally, we don't mean to pick on the Sporting News. We're sure there were other publications just as wrong — if not more wrong — but the Sporting News was the only publication we had the foresight to save, or for that matter, we felt was worth saving, which should be of some consolation to that good publication's editors.

Now, based on the consensus vote of six major POST season All America's (UPI, AP, Kodak, Football Writers of America, NEA), the Sporting News correctly picked only six players on defense (and two of those were nowhere near unanimous selections by the other publications), and just four on offense, only two of whom made most of the other major "All" teams.

The Sporting News picked Randy White, defensive end from Maryland (they couldn't miss with him); linebackers Rod Shoate from Okalhoma, Bob Breunig of Arizona State (who made only one or two of the post-season squads) and Woodrow Lowe of Alabama; and defensive backs Dave Brown from Michigan and Robert Giblin out of Houston, the latter of whom made only one or two other "All" teams.

Offensively, the Sporting News hit it on the head with back Archie Griffin of Ohio State (a spastic ape could have picked that one) and guard Gerry DiNardo of Notre Dame. They also picked tight end Jim O'Bradovich of USC and tackle Bob Simmons of Texas, neither of whom were exactly overwhelming favorites among the other all-American picks.

More surprising than who the Sporting News picked was who they DIDN'T pick. Now, we can accept excuses for not even an honorable mention for Cal quarterback Steve Bartkowski, who was a definite sleeper, even to his own team. But no Anthony Davis? That was ridiculous.

WE DON'T REVIEW movies here, mainly because we're technically qualified to review only movies about sports, and the only one we've ever seen that we still remember (outside of "Pride of the Yankees" and the "Babe Ruth Story," which we remember only because they were so bad) is "Paper Lion." But even then, the book was much better than the movie.

But "The Longest Yard" with Burt Reynolds, is a very entertaining movie about sports (although, some intellectual types will undoubtedly find seven or eight allegories about Life and Truth in it), especially about football. Basically, it shows football for what it really is: vicious, sadistic, primitive, and a helluva lot of fun.

THIS PAST PRO FOOTBALL season may have been one of the best years ever for low interception ratios for quarterbacks.

Ken Anderson led the AFC with only 3 per cent interceptions for every pass attempted. He was followed by Charley Johnson (3.7), Joe Gilliam (3.8), Kenny Stabler (3.9) and Dan Pastorini (4.0).

For the NFC it was Jim Hart with an incredible 2.1, and then Billy Kilmer (2.6), Sonny Jurgensen and James Harris with 3's, and Frank Tarkenton, 3.4.

Generally if there are one or two full-time passers below 4 per cent, it's a perhaps better than average year, with the leaders usually in the four and sometimes upper 4 per cents.

BOWL BRIEFS: If the bowl games proved anything, it was that nice guys DO win (Joe Paterno) and that not-so-nice guys CAN lose (Woody Hayes) . . . And the Rose Bowl gave us more respect for John McKay. We still think he's somewhat over-rated coach, but we don't deny his guts, which it took to go for the possibility of a win rather than the virtual certainty of a tie. The pressure was extra-heavy because of McKay's refusal to take a sure three points just before the half ended (it seems to us that one always takes three against a tough defensive team (so that he could gamble for the TD which never came. The three extra at the half would not have forced him into the nerve-wracking win-tie decision at the end . . . And finally, if that recent story by a San Francisco columnist purporting that Notre Dame players hate Ara Parshegian's guts was true, then the Irish kids did a great acting job for national television, as they all seemed to want to hug and kiss Ara after the game. After that display, we've got to believe they wanted to win it for him. We'd loathe to even consider the alternative reason.

IF YOU CAN STAND some baseball statistics . . . Steve Ontiveros got on base a higher percentage of times at bat than any other Giant, 36.8 per cent. Gary Mathews was next at 36.3, followed by Bobby Bonds (35.6) and Dave Rader (33.4).

Ontiveros should only come to bat during the daytime, however. He hit .326 under the sun, .192 under the lights.

Bonds enjoyed fake turf more than any other Giant, hitting .279 on the turf, .200 off. Mathews showed a .62 point BA difference on the ersatz stuff, .304 to .242. Garry Maddox registered a gain of .295 as agsinst .261. Chris Speier, slower afoot than the above mentioned, lost three points, hitting .252 on the good green stuff, .249 on the pool table surfaces.

Ken Reitz, the Daly City-Jefferson high lad who plays third base for the Cardinals, has now officially, for the second consecutive year, led NL hot sackers in fielding percentage.

IF CATFISH HUNTER wins 100 games for the Yankees over the five years of his $3.7 million contract, he will be getting $37,000 per win. Ironically, the fewer he wins, the more he will be getting paid for each victory.

AS USUAL, the national media are virtually ignoring the Warriors; ignoring not only what they are doing, but how they are doing it.

If one of the Eastern teams had lost practically an entire starting lineup with little player compensation, and then went on to the second best record in pro basketball, they would be featured on every jock magazine cover in the land, and perhaps even Haywood Hale Broun would be doing a Sunday evening television feature on them.

Consider: the Warriors lost one of the all-time great centers (Nate Thurmond), one of basketball's best defensive and rebounding forwards (Clyde Lee), one of the game's best shooters (Cazzie Russell), and one of basketball's most fiery, aggressive guards (Jim Barnett), and got in player compensation one very good, but not great center, Clifford Ray.

Ray and his pivot partner George Johnson, incidentally, together are averaging 18 rebounds a game, which, if they were a siamese twin, would make them the leading rebounder in the NBA.

But Beard may have his detractors, but he's sixth in the NBA in free throw percentage (85.6), eighth in field goal percentage (50.2).

We know about the cricicism most NBA officials draw, but did you ever get the feeling that they have a tougher job than the athletes, and at far less pay? There aren't enough of them (to really cover a game adequately, there should be three), they have no subsitutes, they never get to sit on the bench during the game. Nobody likes them or gives them credit when they DO have a good game, the only publicity they get is bad, they travel more than the players, have no home base, and the various types of pressures on them must be at least close to the intensity of the pressures on the athletes.

Westmoor, Jefferson Playoff Shoo-ins

Battle For Fourth Looms in NPL

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Correspondent

Another exciting run to the playoffs is expected to begin today when North Peninsula League basketball opens its 1975 season.

Two of the four playoff spots are pretty well being surrendered to defending champion Westmoor and cross-town rival Jefferson by league coaches. Some, but not all, feel South San Francisco has a good shot at the third spot. But the fourth and final position is still open.

Two of the hopeful teams for that final position will get an early test Wednesday as Terra Nova travels to Jefferson and Oceana goes to Westmoor. Rounding out the 3:15 p.m. starts is Serramonte at Half Moon Bay. SSF is at El Camino with the varsity game at 7 p.m.

Westmoor, coming off a 14-0 league record last year, and a 7-2 mark against tough competition in practice this year, has to logically be the title favorite again.

Ram Coach Tony Giamonna has four of last year's five starters back, headed by center Maurice Pittman, probably the best pivotman on the Peninsula.

The backcourt duo of Ted Scott and Rob Baptista join with junior forward Jerry McNeil off last year's perfect team, while sophomore Chris Tyeskey fills out the fifth spot. The Rams have lost to St. Ignatius, regarded as the best team in the region, if not the section, and to Serra, a team they had earlier defeated. So if the Rams play to potential, they are easily capable of getting another round-robin title.

Jefferson has been the early surprise in the north. The Indians, under new head coach Jim Cunningham, have veteran junior center Ron Sylvia as their leading rebounder and spring-legged junior Randolph Singleton, a pleasant transfer asset as both scorer and rebounder.

Veteran Eric Haynes and Jose Guaman should lead the scoring with transfer Mike Osborne as the Indians' sixth man.

South City has been highly erratic but still seems as if it will do well when league play begins. The Warriors have three-year veteran Albert Dunn at one forward, a high-powered guard duo of Frank Cesarz and Paul Bachtold and veteran center John Heise in the pivot. Junior Jim Selvitella, off an unbeaten sophomore team, rounds out the starting five.

Oceana, regarded as a strong playoff contender before practice season began, has shown signs of weakening in late stages of games. The Sharks are 2-7 and have been leading teams in the final quarter in six of the seven losses. Javier Grandov, Calvin Ellison and Gordon Speck are all strong scorers, but bench strength and rebounding are areas the Sharks will have to improve on to get that playoff berth.

Terra Nova could have a playoff contender depending upon the season center Dan Phelps has. The senior transfer must shoulder the rebounding, but he does have three able scorers in Todd McClure and Peter and Paul Guterres to carry that load.

Serramonte, which has had a long holiday layoff, has occasionally but impressive with senior forward Jerome Williams being the most consistent scorer. Matt Scheffler, a one-year veteran junior, will also be an offensive threat, but rebounding again will hold the key for the Regents to repeat their playoff role of last year.

Half Moon Bay has size enough to rebound and has shown on occasion it can score, but needs a take-charge guard and better ballhandling before the Cougars can be considered threats. Scott Amour, Rick Loveman and Joe Jesse can keep the Cougars close and HMB may yet upset some people.

El Camino is low on experience, size and scoring ability.

First-year coach Owen Kashevaroff may have the nucleus of a team for the next couple years, but right now the Colts should be logically, out of playoff contention. Senior guard Steve Nunes and junior Will Rhodes have been the only two consistent scorers.

Jiggetts Sparks CSM Win

College of San Mateo's basketball team scored a comeback 70-54 win over visiting City College of San Francisco Friday night in the Golden Gate Conference opener for both teams.

CSM trailed 54-50 with five minutes to go, but ran off an amazing string on 18 unanswered points to score its first win since the season opener 11 games ago.

The Bulldogs led at the half 35-26 but were plagued by turnovers and lost the advantage after intermission.

A key to CSM's win was the play of freshman guard Mike Jiggets from El Camino, who came off the bench in the second half to direct the offense and top the Bulldogs in scoring.

It was a three-point play by Jiggetts that gave the Bulldogs the lead at 55-54 with 4:26 to go. He was 7-7 from the line and ended up with 21 points.

Center Tony Williams and forward Joe Harris each pulled down 11 rebounds. forward Ron Jackson grabbed ten.

Trojans, Oaks Easy Victors

By FRED BAER

Skyline and Menlo Colleges tuned up for Wednesday's Coast Conference basketball openers by posting impressive wins over major university JV teams Saturday night.

Skyline romped past the visiting Stanford JV, 87-63, with Nick Pappageorge scoring 15 points and Marty Gale 14 (hitting seven of nine field goals). Frank Denucci came off the bench in the first half to break the game open with his outside shooting against the young Cards' zone and tallied 12 points.

Menlo completed its weekend in the Santa Barbara area with a 75-66 win over the UC Santa Barbara JV. Tony Ramos played his best game of the year according to Oak coach Bud Presley, scoring 22 points. The soph guard from Sacred Heart also grabbed eight rebounds, as did frosh forward Rick Michelmore.

Menlo's lone loss since 1973 came Thursday night at Santa Barbara CC but the Oaks rebounded to beat Cuesta Friday.

While Menlo is the defending state small division champion and top-ranked in the state, Presley's choice for this year's Coast title is fourth-ranked Skyline under new coach Lyle Newcomer.

Skyline (10-5) enters Coast play with a five-game win streak and entertains co-tenth-ranked Cabrillo tonight at 7:30 before visiting Menlo Saturday evening. Skyline beat Cabrillo, 83-73, last month for the consolation title of the Cabrillo tournament.

Padres End SF Drought

Serra High's basketball team improved its West Catholic Athletic League mark to 2-0 Saturday night with a 53-43 win over host St. Francis in Mountain View.

It was Serra's first victory at St. Francis since 1969. The Padres had halted another drought, at Riordan (S.F.), in their league opener Friday night.

Serra motored to a 30-23 halftime lead and then disposed of the Lancers with a 14-6 run in the third period.

Forward John Caselli sparked that burst with ten points.

The Padres had some trouble in the final period, but maintained the lead by hitting nine free throws for all their points in the stanza. Joe Moureaux connected on five of the foul shots.

"Except for that last quarter, our consistency was good," said Serra coach Pat McGlennon. "But I think we were a little tired at the end, too."

Caselli led Serra with 14 points and led a good defensive efforts that pressured St. Francis into a number of mistakes.

Moureaux and center Joe Ned had 13 points each.

Death Claims Crash Victim

Diana Marie Lollick, 39, 1160 Vista Grande Ave., Millbrae, died Monday shortly after noon at Stanford Hospital, from injuries received in a Tuesday morning car crash in Millbrae.

Mrs. Lollick had suffered head and internal injuries in the accident, which resulted when her husband drove off Hillcrest Avenue into a concrete wall after being blinded by another car's headlights. Her husband Richard was only slightly hurt.

She was first treated at Peninsula Hospital, shortly after the 2 a.m. accident, and then transferred to Stanford, arriving there at 7:45 a.m. She was pronounced dead at 12:30.

Millbrae Police Sgt. William Urbanski said Tuesday that his department had not yet been notified of the death. Millbrae's first fatality of 1975.

Santa Clara County Coroner's office confirmed that the death had occurred, but did not explain why neither the hospital nor the Coroner's office had notified police.

Device Bags Shoplifter

A merchant's installation of a sensitive tag device at a sports shop in Redwood City bagged a suspect charged with shoplifting Friday night.

Police said a man tried to walk out of the store with a pair of ski gloves.

The store has placed what are called sensitive tags on all merchandise. Unless the tags are removed at the time of purchase, an alarm sounds when someone tries to walk out the door.

That's what happened to the suspect police said. The store preferred not to be named in order to retain its element of surprise.
